An Englishman in America.

The following article appears in the London Ship ing and Mercantile Gazette :

North America, and think it probable I can give your readers some useful information. I landed in New York city ten months ago, and have spent my ime in studying the character and customs of those people, and must confess that if I remained ten years he result would be the same; and I know very li tle about them. But upon one point-national pridemen, women and children are all alike, and the idea of any nation of Europe, or the whole of them put ogether, conquering this country is perfectly absurd o them. Every body reads the papers, and a goodnumored urchin of twelve years used to rate me soundly at Philadelphia for our failures at Sebas'opol. The best version of American sympathy was given me a few days since. When the war commenced the Turks were the weaker power, and our Russia; but, should France join Russia to-morrow gainst England, our government could not prevent ts citizens from not only sympathizing with England, but assisting her with material aid. This I neard from a very intelligent man, who I do not think suspected my nationality; and I firmly believe it. In the South I spent some time upon the plantations, and many times held long conversations with the slaves, and always with the same result. They are much better satisfied than I suspected, and when I spoke of the probability of a war I was answered that, "white folks wouldn't let nigga fight." "But," said I, "the blacks from the West Indies will come here and help you to gain your freedom." "What! the same feeling was ever expressed. I have visited all their national armories, and although the country is at peace, the greatest activity prevailed; all the old arms are condemned, and by next spring nearly 1,500,000 Minie rifles will be ready for distribution, besides Colt's, Clark's, and others. A Mr. Alger, at Boston, is now engaged on a new kind of gun for the navy. The range, with solid shot, is nearly five miles; with shell, somewhat shorter, and the explosion of the shell renders conflagration certain to a great distance. These are called, by those at work on them, the secret gun, but what the secret is I could not ascertain. Since the war rumors I have been observant of all and every thing that could give me a clue to the feelings of the people. This is not difficult to come at, for the feeling is general, and their confidence is so great in their own strength that the most diffident speak only of the consequences and the result. In company with a party of merchants, most of w om were engaged in trade with England, I broached the war subject, and was astonished to find them so indifferent about the consequences. One of them, largely interested in clipper ships, in answer to a remark of mine, that he would have to lay up his clippers -" Not a bit of it," said he, "they will make capital privateers; the government will furnish guns of long range; no British man of war can catch them except a steamer, chances." "But where will you get your men?" Where! We have 84,000 enrolled fishermen, who will flood our sea-ports, and I will tell you candidly, that in less than six months after war is declared there will be 500 of the fastest vessels in the world afloat as privateers, and an English merchantman will not be able to show herself at sea. What if we lose a few, we will make it up in the end. Two steamers were launched a few days since, each about 4,000 tons, built in eight months, and it is just as easy to build 50 in the same time or less." this moment, and in a few hours near 50.000 men will make their appearance armed and equipped." This sounds like bragging, but it is a fact. This city (New York) has near that number enrolled and equipped; every man keeps his rifle at home of in Bleached and Brown Table Cloths, all sizes; Russia, Scotch, and Huckabuck Towellings: Apron and Furniture Checks, and Huckabuck Towellings: Apron and Furniture Checks, and Huckabuck Towellings: Apron and Furniture Checks, and French.

There is another item which I am like to forget .-Many of my countrymen place great dependence on the abolitionists, or friends of freedom in this country; but I assure you their greatest protection here s their insignificance. They flourish as long as thought harmless, but the slightest suspicion of their collusion with a foreign foe, and they would be annihilated; in fact, I have proved to my entire satisfac tion that these terrible and exciting questions are only intended for political effect; but attach any importance to them affecting the interests of the country, and they are gone. You would, no doubt, be astonished to hear that many children of foreigners, sympathies were with her. After the alliance it was and, in fact, foreigners themselves, are know-noth-three against one, and our sympathies went for ings, started to prescribe them; but such is the fact. Is It a Ghost, or is it not? As the watchmen tread steadily along their alloted beats, when the city is hushed in the deathly stillness of midnight, they witness scenes and encounter events of the most thrilling as well as amusing character. Last night was damp and chilly .-Heavy clouds hung over the city, shutting out altoblack soger come here; let 'em cum, den, massa let's gether the silvered glittering watchers of the heavfight de nigga, I know, and Gar Almighty we give ens, and a stiff uncomfortable breeze from the northem gosh!" If not expressed in the same language west swept the streets. No wonder that two watchmen of the ninth ward rubbed their hands with glee as they heard the chime of St. Paul jingle quarter of 8 o'clock, the time for them to retire from their beats to the dismissing roll-call. No wonder that they boldly faced the fierce winds, and made their big feet pat the sidewalks most merily. No wonder they rejoiced in the close of their night's work, and anticipated naught but a comfortable bed and a more comfortable slumber. On they tread, little dreamin g of danger and trouble. Passing through a lighted street, they had just turned into Vine when one of the watchmen happening to raise his eyes, started back with affright and ex-"Holy mudder! vat's dat?"

"What?" asked his companion, startled also at this sudden move. "See him," replied the other, casting his long fingers in the direction of the opposite side of the "Gracious!" whispered the comrade, " what are t? are it a ghost, or are it not ?"

"Mine Got in Himmel! it bes a ghost," was the reply of the other terrified guardian of the night .-See him shump."

So he does-then it are no ghost. Ghosts never jump. May be he's a thief. Let's get arter him, anyhow."

This proposition was very hesitatingly agreed to and they cannot in a good breeze, so we must take by the Teutonic, but as he could not well refuse to follow his comrade, he nodded assent, and moved cautiously on. The sight which had at first so terrified them, was a tall figure clothed in a long garb of white, which moved slowly and, apparently, in a circle upon the opposite sidewalk. As the watchmen approached the really ghost-like figure, they became more assured in the opinion that it was really a human being, and one who had not yet entered the valley and shadow of death. Still, however, their approach was cautious, and they were many feet from it, when one demanded in the tone of author-he be's not'in' put a trunken mans ! Ha! ha! he! he! he be's no ghost. Let's pitch into him." No sooner said than done. The courageous Chares approached manfully, and seized the spectre by the collar—the shirt collar, for he had no other.

" Vat you doin' here ?" was the demand. "Trunk by tam," was the reply,

"Where do you live ?"

" Trunk, by tam."

"You's got to go vit us to de Vatch House." " Trunk, by tam."

By this time the whole mystery was explained .e who had been taken for a ghost was a young German named Carlos Derkreeh He had been libating during the night, and become so fuddled that he knew no' what he was doing. He had really suppose thimself at home, and had stripped off his clothing, and intended to lie down on a cellar door, which to him looked very much like a bed. The watchmen conducted him, in his they allowed him to sleep until 10 o'clock this morning, when they ushered him, with his swelled head, before the Police Court. Judge Pruden reprimanded Carlos for getting so drunk that he could not rell his bed from a cellar door, and for scaring two watchby enlisting them; and my Lord Palmerson's inmen so badly by letting his under garments loose to structions were something like telling a man to stab the winds at such an early hour of the morning .-Carlos was sent up for two days under the liquor Going to Bed .- Going to bed we have always

Louis Napoleon Messrs. Gales & Seaton :- Observing in the newspaper press frequent remarks concerning Louis Napoleon, of France, which, if they come himself or his friends, are calculated to produce ill. will in their minds towards our country, and knowing ion, foreign as well as domestic, to do good to the country wherever it can be done with truth and honor, I have thought that some facts concerning the sojourn of the present Emperor of France in America, profligate he is supposed by some to have been, would be acceptable to you for your paper, especially as the source from which the information is derived is of the very highest reliability.

The Rev. Chas. Stuart, Chaplain in the Navy, and author of the well-known work on the Sandwich Is. lands, told the writer of this article last summer the facts alluded to. I then expressed to him an opinion that it would be but just to Louis Napoleon to make them public. He thought with me, but seemed to feel some repugnance to coming out himself on the subject, which, as I supposed, proceeded from a delicacy in speaking publicly of himself as the chosen friend and confident of the fugitive Prince. I then suggested to Mr. Stuart, that I might possibly, at suggested to Mr. Stuart, that some future moment, "supply his lack of service" to the public, which I now take this method of do.

Mr. Stuart had called with other gentlemen on Louis Napoleon immediately on his arrival,* not supposing that anything but a mere formal acquain. tance would be the result. But the stranger was so attached himself (a mark of his good judgment) There were several questions involved in this contest — among them, whether the Edie delegates had not for-strained to differ from the materials, find themselves constrained to differ from the materials, find the materials and the materials and the materials and the materials are materials.

> Mr. Stuart could not answer for Louis Napoleon since he left this country, nor did I understand him Here he remained, not daring to fall asleep. About to deny that he might, while here, have made debts which at the time he was unable to discharge. Since of his former friendship to Mr. Stuart.

> > * In New York, I believe, but I cannot be certain that this was the place of their first meeting. The Steam Frigate Niagara in Dry Dock.

> > The United States steam frigate Niagara is now safely secured in the naval dry dock at Brooklyn. About ten o'clock on Monday morning last Mr. George Steers, her builder, began his preparations for hauling her from the vicinity of the ship house. A large force of men were employed, and in an hour after commencing he had the monstrous vessel opposite the dock, which is situated at the southerly end of the yard. At eleven o'clock the gate was opened and the water let into the dock. It was high tide at this time, and the water filled the dock to the depth of seventy-two feet.

> > At twelve o'clock the Niagara was floated into the dock, during a snow storm, and the steam engine attached to the dock was set to work during the afternoon and worked at intervals, so as to enable the constructor to get the ship in position on the blocks in the bottom of the dock.

> > On Tuesday morning there were about ten feet of water remaining in the dock, but in the afternoon it was pumped out, and the Niagara is now seen to good advantage. The work of coppering the ship will be commenced. About forty men will be required for this service; and as the work will not be pushed very rapidly at present the ship will probably remain in dock six weeks.

The Niagara almost completely fills up the dry dock, and presents a fine appearance. Owing to the great depth of the ship, her bulwarks are eighteen feet above the surface of the dock. It has been said by shipbuilders and others that the Niagara, after er launch, would straighten at least twelve inches. From actual inspection, we learn, it has been found that she has straightened less than one inch. To her extraordinary strength of build is attributed this remarkable fact .- Herald.

The Manchester Guardian correspondent says :-There can be no denying that one of the weaknesses this morning, after an illness of several days. of the present government in France, one of its chief was in command of the Gosport Navy Yard. cism as to morality, and the seeming indifference in the U. S, service. which is manifested, even by the Emperor, as to the purity of the individuals by whom he is served. Not ong ago, a story relating to this kind of thing, made ome noise in Paris saloons, and I have been able to find accurate details, which may make the anecdote interesting. A short time since, the Emperor, riding n the Bois de Boulogne, accompanied by the person whose position gives him unlimited authority over the services of the imperial stables, caught sight of a gentleman well known in French society, and turnng to his companion, said, "What a fine horse - has got! I should like that horse myself." The attendant proposed that the horse should be purchased, and the Emperor said he should be glad know whether M .- would sell the horse. Next morning M. F -- called upon the owner of the horse, and told him what had passed the day before. This gentleman professed at once to have no disinclination whatever to sell his horse, and said he would dispose of it with pleasure for the price it cost him, namely, 4500 france (£180). So said, so done:

the money was paid, and the horse conducted into the Emperor's stables.

A week or two passed, when, one evening at the Jocky Club, the person who had sold his horse found himself taken aside by two or three of his friends. who, putting him in mind of the statutes of the club, which strictly forbid horse-jobbing or the sale of a horse at a price above that for which he was bought, asked him point blank for what sum he had sold his horse? "For 4,500 francs," was the instant reply. "Then," rejoined the one of the former speakers, "the sum inscribed upon the books of the ministere de la maison as having been paid to you is 15,000 francs" (£600!) M- indignantly declared he would fathom the whole mistery, and next day obtained communication of the books concerning the stable service. Sure enough 15,000 francs was the sum inscribed. Persuaded that this was the cheatery of M. F-, and that the Emperor would be incensed when he heard it, M. - wrote to have an audience plained the entire story to Napoleon, and at the close ooked for an explosion of indignation. No such thing. After listening attentively, the Emperor smiled, and fixing his dull grey eye on the narrator, said : M. -, you have the best kept horses in Paris; your head man, the chief of your stables, must be a satisfied with his head man's services. "Of course he robs you?" was the Emperor's remark. His interlocutor hesitated, and at last said-Well, he supposed that was probable. "Well then," resumed the Majesty, "we are both in the same position, both equally open-eyed, and both equally resigned; for neither of us would gain anything by a change." Thus the conversation ended. But this is only utterly indifferent not only to the honesty but also to the capacity of his instruments. He only requires subserviency. A speech made by the Emperor himself not many days since will suffice to prove how entirely this is the case. After a dinner where but two or three individuals, strangers to the household, were assembled, whilst the Emperor was taking his offee, he observed slowly, and smiling all the while, I hear it said that, when the Comte de Chambord is to reign over this country, he means to employ all his capacities. I have done just the reverse, and I

The new and elegant locomotive, "Gov. Bragg," and made a trial trip of about a mile out from this town, on the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad. Our citizens assembled, en masse, and witnessed with much interest the little excursion. Hundreds took passage—the platform cars, locomotive and tender, eing literally crammed during the afternoon; and the enthusiasm was unbounded, but not the slightest accident occurred, and all seemed delighted with the performance of the "iron horse" and the pleasant ride. The feeling throughout appeared to tell that a new and brighter era had dawned upon us. .

The "Gov. Brag" is intended for either freight or passengers, and is from the well-known works of lessrs. The latter bill, it is feared, will drive many business men of capital from the town, as the increased tax is said to be nearly 100 per cent. A large town meeting was held on Saturday evening, and the course of the Legislature pronounced unjust and tyrannical, requesting the Senator and Delegate from Norfolk, should the session be continued, to withdraw from their seats, and declaring that rather than submit to further injustice, Norfolk, with that section of Virginia, will ask to be ceded to North Carolina .- Baltimore Sun.

Just as with the builder of the Bastile of France, to whom the Bishop might appropriately have made allusion, it appears that the carpenter who first made the stocks was the first to suffer from them, by reason of his extortionate charges One of the laws of the Colony contained a distinct recognition of slavery; even a fugitive slave law was passed. The limited notions which prevailed of true freedom were illustrated in the liability vailed of true freedom were illustrated in the liability of any person to be reduced to slavery for a limited term, if guilty of what the court might be pleased to consider "ill and insolent carriage." The year 1633 witnessed a remarkable interference with freedom of individual action, "all Christian people being for bidden to leave lectures during the week before 1 o'clock in the afternoon." This regulation appeared not to have been uncalled for, for so long would the zealous clergy of that period preach, that numerous of their hearers adopted the expedient of cutting little private doors from their pews through the sides of the meeting houses, from which they might estimated to the meeting houses, from which they might estimate the editor or proprietor.—Union.

Adulteration of Lard.—The New York Journal of Commerce says:

Our remarks a few days since about the adulteration of lard for shipment, it appears excited a suspicion, that, perhaps, the same thing had been attempted for the home trade. REVIEW OF THE WILMINGTON MARKET, FOR THE WEEK ENDING APLIL 3RD, 1856.

Since our review of Thursday last, business of all kinds has ruled exceedingly dull. The arrivals of country produce have been light, and consequently our report of the week's have been light, and consequently our report of the week's transactions will be found meagre. The advices by the last steamer from Europe has had little or no effect on naval stores. Crude Turpentine has ruled unsteady, with light receipts, and sales during the week have been mostly made at a decline of 4 @ 5 cents, but the market opened this merning at quotations of Thersday last; Spirits Turpentine has fluctuated from 34 to 34½ cents, but closes with more activity in the market at latter price; Tar has gone down 35 cents, owing to the large receipts; and Rosin is firm at quotations Cotton remains steady, and finds quick sale. Flour has come in sparingly, and remains about the same. The supply of Groceries and Provisions on market is same. The supply of Groceries and Provisions on market is light, and prices rule high. We refer to the following review, which contains all the sales we have heard of:

TURPENTINE—After closing our report on Thursday last prices gave way a shade, and as will be seen from our table below the market has been fluctuating for a day or two past; quotations this morning, however, are the same as this day week. The sales reach only 1,362 bbls. for the week, viz : Bbls. Virgin. Yellow dip.

Thursday.... 300.....$1 80.....$2 25....

of 1 cent on previous quotations, and the market ruled inactive up to Tuesday; on that day, however, the decline was recovered, and the market closed with more firmness. The sales for the week have been chiefly of small parcels, and reach only 881 bbls., viz:
Friday......249 bbls. at 34 cents per gallon.
Saturday.....148 "34" This morning only one small parcel has changed hands at 345 cents, at which the market seems firm.

Rosin - There has been considerable activity in the Co m-mon article since our last review, and the transactions have been heavy. One or two parcels have sold at $1 15 for large size bbls., but we may quote the market as firm at $1 10, at which there are buyers. The week's operations foot up 17,-000 bbls., as follows: medium size. large bbls. Thursday 1,000 Friday 6,560 Saturday 6,925 1 05 and but little on market. Small sales at $1 50 for inferior and but little on market. Small sales at $150 for inferior and $2 $2 bbl. for fair quality.

TAR—The large receipts for the past three or four weeks has caused considerable duliness in the market for this article, and as the demand has been checked, prices during the past week have receded fully 35 cents. The sales reach 3,-249 bbls., viz: Wednesday 500 bbls. at $1 50 % barrel.

Wednesday.....557 " 1 15@1 20 " "
Wednesday....557 " 1 15@1 20 " "
PITCH—There is a moderate stock in makers' hands, and rery little demand. Small sales at $1 50 % bbl.

BEEF CATTLE—Nothing new to notice. Fair supply in butcher's hands, and rather dull except for extra quality.—

We quote at 7½ @ 8½ cents % lb.

COFFEE—We notice fair receipts during the past week, and there is now a full stock of most descriptions in store.—

The demand is limited, and only coessions sales as

MULFORD'S CELEBRATED LEMON Sugar, prethe best Lemons, in a concentrated form, then crystallized with sugar, for the instant production of Lemonade. In this pure state it supersedes Lemon Syrup, and is more convenient and cheaper than Lemons, as it will not spoil in any climate. For Parties and travelling, it is invaluable. The Sugar is neatly put up in canisters of \(\frac{1}{2} \) B. each, (2 doz. in

CORN MEAL—Is in moderate stock, and rather dull of sale.

We quote from store at 80 cents $\frac{1}{2}$ bushel.

EMPTY BARRELS—For Spirits Turpentine barrels the market continues exceedingly dull, with a fair stock in first hands. We notice sales of small parcels at prices ranging from $1 25 to $1 65 each for second hand, according to quality. No sales of new; held at $2.

FISH—No Mullets received, and very few if any on market; would sell quick at $5 @ $5 50 for good quality. A lot of 100 bbls. No. 3 Mackerel received and sold from wharf at $6 $\frac{1}{2}$ bbl. No Herring in market.

FLOUR—There has been but little doing in this article since our last review, owing to the light receipts. For su-

since our last review, owing to the light receipts. For superfine and family brands the market has ruled steady, with a fair demand from retailers, and the sales have been of small parcels Wilmington and Fayetteville brands at $8.6 $8.25 for superfine, and $8.50 $9 bbl for family. A lot of the sales have been of small parcels wilmington and Fayetteville brands at $8.6 $1.00 $

Grain—For Corn the market has ruled quiet during the past week. Dealers have a fair supply on hand and are not disposed to purchase unless at a decline on former figure; the demand is limited, and mostly confied to consumers. A cargo of 2,800 bushels received a few days since, which has been selling from vessel at 62½ cents & bushel, in quantities to suit.—OATS—Are in moderate stock, and market quiet. Received this week only 400 bushels, which were sold at 45 cents & bushel.—Peas—Cow remain about as last reported. Receipts fair, and moderate supply in store. A lot of 130 bushels sold from vessel on Monday at 80 cents & bush; smaller parcel sell a shade higher—85 @ 90 cents, as in quantity and quality. No receipts of Black Eye, and we note some enquiry; would sell at $1 10 @ $1 20 & bushel.—Beans—White are in demand, and none arriving; we quote at $1 75 @ $2 & bushel.—Rice—Clean remains in fair supply, and market dull. We reduce figures $\frac{1}{2}$ cent, and quote at $4 \tag{4}$ dents $\tag{6}$ b., as in quality. For rough there is no demand, and the market is also dull; planters have a moderate quantity on hand, which is generally held at $1 10 $\tag{6}$ bushel, but no buyers.

HAY- We can learn of no receipts of either description during the past week, and quotations in table may be considered merely nominal. There is but little demand at present, and the stock in dealers hands is rather heavy for the season. Parcels would not command higher rates than quo-Lime—The stock in dealers hands has been nearly all worked off, and there remains but very little on market. We advance store rates to $1 35 @ $1 40 $ cask, as in quantity. One or two cargoes are row looked for, which will probably reduce it to former rates.

Liquors—The market is better supplied with common whiskey, and prices have receded a shade. In other descripnotice no change. See table for store rates, in quantities to suit. Quantities to suit.

LUMBER—River—The market rules dull for this article, and we have no sales to report. Two or three rafts received and are unsold.

Molasses—There is a good supply of Cuba in first hands, and the market has ruled dull throughout the week. We quote from wharf at 34 @ 36 cents & gallon, as in quantities—sells from store at 40 cents by the barrel.

Potatoes—In Irish we have no sales of consequence to notice, and as the season for planting is nearly or quite past, the market has become quite dull. A lot of 300 bbls received, and are unsold. We reduce figures, and quote at $2.25.

ed, and are unsold. We reduce figures, and quote at $2.20 @ $2.50 % bbl. No Sweet coming in, and we erase quotations; would readily bring a high price.

Provisions—In N. C. cured Bacon we have no material alteration to notice in prices. As the receipts have been very small for some time past, the stock in grocers hands has become exceedingly light, and we note an active demand for retailing purposes. Sales have been made from store at 12½ cents for hog round, and 13½ @ 13½ cents # fb. for hams, as in quality, at which figures the market is firm. For Western cured there is only a light demand, and there has been nothing done except in the small way. We quote from store nothing done except in the small way. We quote from store at 9½ cents for shoulders, 10½ @ II cents for sides, and 12 cents $\mathbb{B}$ b. for hams, by the quantity.— LARD—Is in considerable enquiry from grocers, and the supply of both N. C. and Western-make has been nearly all worked off. We note that the supply of the s weight and quality.

Salt--No transactions of moment since our last review that we can learn of, and the supply of both Liverpool sack and Alum is sufficient for present demand. See table for store

Sugars--- The supply on market is very light, and for Porto Rico we advance rates a shade. See table. SHINGLES--Remain decidedly dull, and sales are difficult to effect for either Common or Contract. See table for pri and we notice a better feeling in the market; no change, however on last week's prices. Sales of only 10 @ 12 rafts at rates quoted in our table. FREIGHTS-In coastwise rates we have no alteration to make. The quantity of freight now offering is light, but sufficient for the vessels in port. There is a fair amount of country produce waiting for shipment, but it is held back

CHARLESTON, April 1.—Cotton—The transactions to-day did not quite reach 1300 bales. The market at its close was decidedly buoyant. The sales were made at prices ranging from 81 to 11 cents, as extremes.

NEW YORK, April 1 .-- Cotton is firm, and 1,500 bales were sold to-day. Flour is dull, and 7,500 bbls. changed hands at $7 87 for Ohio. Corn is worth 64 cents $\mathbb{H}$ bushel. White Wheat commands $1 92 $\mathbb{H}$ bushel. Rice is quiet.

the Empress Eugenie have, for months past, been as regularly published as those pertaining to the siege sex is to be, has been canvassed as coolly as any other state question. In Paris nearly everything is a spectacle, and the most recent and attractive spectacle has consisted of the Imperial baby clothes, to a tickets, which are freely given to every respectable person. Such is the crowd that a line has to be formed, and kept moving, under the management of the ubiquitous police. In order to be fully prepared, there are two complete sets of baby-clothes, masculine and feminine; for, absolute as Louis Napoleon is in France, he has nothing to say in determining whethand are " as well as can be expected."

By the way, a gentleman, some days since, told candidate for some office "out West," which will come into our head, apropos of the expected heir to the with its conditions. The Company has claimed the justing her balances with the North. Cotton, sugar, French empire. It would appear that the office-seek- protection of the United States Government, and we lice, &c., all rule at fair rates. The Sharp's Rifle business seems to take among the speculators in philanthropy at the North. A fa natic, however sincere, is an ugly customer, and perhaps he is none the less dangerous for his sincerity. Well, sincere fanatics there must be, else there would be no traders in the business, which would not pay, and pay is what said traders are after. For the genuine fanatic we have some respect. There is a certain amount of respectability in anything that is genuine and what it purports to be, that can never attach to a counterfeit article, no matter how well got up. These Sharps rifle's must be paid for, and the manufacturers must have their profits. Now, it strikes us that certain parties interested in their sale and manufacture are at the bottom of the whole business of having them bought and sent to Kansas .-If the whole truth were told there are preachers and professed philanthropists who have a hand in the speculation and who will finger a share of the profits. How much is realized on each rifle is more than we know, but something comfortable.

That was quite a time at New Haven last week. Quite a revival of breach-loading religion. Quite a good sale for the iron-mongers. GRUMBLING .- If there was the slightest possible use in grumbling, we might grumble, for we feel peculiarly grumblesome. The atmosphere don't suit us. We feel chilly and bad in a general way, and everybody we meet feels chilly, or they belie their looks. All nature bears a depressed aspect, indicative of suicidal proclivities abnormally developed .-Even a big rooster in the hotel yard, near our office, has caught cold and crows languidly, as though laboring under incipient bronchitis. The steam whistles have a melancholy tone, and the sighing swain who would be so foolish as to propose to his "ladye-love" to-day ought to be rejected for having no better sense than to expect a favorable response to any question on such a day. Othello himself, whom some folk's say was a nigger, knew better than that and took Desdemonia at "a pliant hour." There is to be a meeting to-night at the Court-House to get up a Fillmore & Donelson Club. We hope they'll have "a good time," and not catch cold. By the way, a gentleman this morning made us a present of a bottle of scuppernong wine of the best sort. We appreciate the courtesy too highly to tell the gentleman's name on such a day, or even to open the bottle.

"Many a banner," says Mr. Clingman in his address to his constituents, " many a banner has risen and stooped again; but there is a flag which has never yet gone down before the eyes of mortal man. GOOD MEDICINES. IT is estimated that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and Cathartic Pills have done more to promote the public health, than any other cause. There can be no question that the Cherry Pectoral has by its thousand on thousand cures of Colds, diseases in this country. The Pills are as good as the Pectoral and will cure more complaints.

Every body needs more or less purging. Purge the blood from its impurities. Purge the Bowels, Liver and the whole visceral system from obstructions. Purge out the diseases which fasten on the body to work its decay. But for diseases which fasten on the body to work its decay. But for diseases which fasten on the body to work its decay.
